“ I remember dancing and the laughter at the local pubs on Saturday nights with Billy and Terry Hayes, Artie and I. The silly jokes and pranks Artie would pull. There was a time when Artie didn't want me hanging out in the park. One day after telling me not to go there one of his friends told him I was there. Artie came and took me home and nailed the windows shut so I wouldn't go out. That didn't stop me. I broke the window and went back to the park. Artie didn't give up he walked through all the mud on the Avenue and dragged me back home. That was one of the few times he got really mad. I can still see him covered in mud. Always my protector. Artie and I liked each other even when we disagreed. When we got older whenever Artie and I got together it was as if it was only him and I in the room. He was not only my brother but also my best friend. We spoke of those days recounting all the crazy things we did. We spoke of Momma and Dad. We spoke endlessly about our kids. Artie was so very proud of his boys Mike and John and his grandchildren. Artie was the best Dad. He was always there for the boys. I could go on for another life time sharing stories but I will keep them locked in my heart for now. Artie was my hero, my protector, my ear, and my heart. I was always so proud of him. I will miss knowing he is here. We never say goodbye...we only say so long. Till we meet again.

“ I knew Artie for many years as he knew my family quite well. I worked in New Dutch in my late teens and Artie was a daily staple. To me he was always a gentle giant, and after he left the store you always felt a little lighter. My condolences go out to his family and close friends.

“ Happy memory..Artie and I were just kids and Marcy was younger. Aunt Dot and Uncle Buddy said that Marcy was our human football. When she hit Artie with a bat, Uncle Buddy confronted her. "I hit him back first" she explained. Perfectly logical.
